THE BARD'S EASY TRIUMPH. SIR DIXON NO MATCH FOR HIM.

A. J. CASSATT'S GREAT COLT WINS THE ST. JAMES

HOTEL STAKES. Again the weather was unkind to the Brooklyn skey Club and the rain kept many thousands away from the track. But the racing was of so high quality that it was by no means a small gathering of specia-And they were amply rewarded for their dis-forts in the storm. They saw The Bard win the St. James Hotel Stakes in a way that should stop the snarls of all carping critics. For some unaccountable reason certain race-goers and certain turf writers show the silliest possible prejudice against this noble horse and are constantly attacking him. This unreasonable stility explains the fact that it was always possible to get three to five in the betting ring, although only Dixon and Banburg ran against him, Hanover, Elkwood, Dry Monopole and Volante having been withof the driving rain and the wet track. drawn because of the driving rain and the wel track.
But if they had all started The Bard would have beaten them all as easily as he beat Sir Dixon. These two ran side by side from start to finish at a good pace and Banburg was never able to get up. It was a pretty run to look at, for The Bard and Sir Dixon moved so nly up to the last hundred yards that the semblance of a struggle was kept up. But The Bard could have Sir Dixon at any stride in any part of the race. Hayward was amusing himself and the public and indulging the Dwyer celt with a delusive vision of victory. Sir Dixon got the whip at the furlong post in the homestretch, but it did not mend matters a bit, and with a gentle shake-up Hayward came away with The Bard, and the champion of Chesterbrook crossed the line in

The pace was strong throughout for a soft, slippery track. The first quarter was run in 25 seconds; the half in 51; the three-quarters in 1:161-2; the mile 1:42 1-4; the mile and a quarter in 2:08 1-2.

All the prominent turfmen in or near New-York, except Mr. Belmont, saw this great race, and all with one voice chanted the praises of The Bard and proclaimed him the best horse now in training in the country. The mighty son of Longfellow and Bradamante showed ne distress or fatigue after his run.

The running of Richmond in the second race caused much raising of cycbrows and much dropping of cyclids. His abject failure filled the bookmakers' pockand they will chuckle over it for days to come." From the start the betting showed strong opposition to a horse that had run two remarkable races thout betraying any ill effects and now met a field far inferior to those he had beaten. After his recent running the betting should have been at least 2 to 1 on him. It opened at 6 to 5 against and rose to 7 to 5 against. But the public would not be seared off by this ominous sign and they plunged on him so briskly that they forced it back to 6 to 5, and in many books to even money. No other horse was sched heavily to win, although Belvidere carried big sums for a place. The bookmakers seemed strangely confident that Richmond could not win, no atter how much money was piled on him. Garrison rode him with his usual skill and made a vigoreffort in the homestretch, but Richmond seeme uscle-bound, would not move up and was beaten off.

It would have been well for the judges to question the owner and trainer of Richmond. Perhaps they could have removed all doubts and put the matter in a clear light. Some turf experts thought Richmond sore; some thought him stiff; some said his recent races had taken all the speed out of him; some said his work for this race had been bad and he had lost form; some suspected that he had slyly escaped his wateful guardians and trifled with the feedoox or the water-bucket at unseemly hours; some suggested that he had taken too much cough-medicine; some hinted that a sneaking scoundrel must have stolen into his stable and drugged the horse without the knowledge of owner or trainer. All sorts of theories were affoat and an investigation would have cleared the air. Belvidere won the race easily.

Mr. Belmont's Prince Royal, an odds-on favorite, won the first race easily, with Governor Bowie's Salvini second. The good old Maryland colors of Salvini second. The good old Maryland colors of the Governor were welcome to many an eye and the hope was freely expressed that they might be seen at FIRST RACE-HANDICAP. 11-4 MILES ON THE the front often this season

The May Stakes resulted in a magnificent fluish between French Park, Oregon and Holiday, French Park winning by a head, with Oregon and Holiday making a dead heat for second place. French Park showed great courage as well as speed and came again at the finish after Oregon had headed him. Holiday got off a length in front, and as she carried only 112 pounds, while Oregon carried 122 and French Park 120, she went briskly about her business. French Park was interfered with at the start and lost ground. The two colts caught Holiday in the homestreich, and the three had a furious fight of it to the last stride. . It was a memorable race and a memorable finish, and proves that French Park and

CLOSE OF THE ANGLERS' TOURNAMENT. TWO RECORDS BROKEN-FLY-CASTING UNDER DIFFICULTIES.

The anglers' tournament of the National Red and Reel

Association closed yesterday at Harlem Mere under somewhat most and dismal circumstances. The wind had been erratic all day, the rain had poured down and made the reds so slippery that they could with difficulty be used, besides dreaching the contestants to the skin, while the attendance was meagre, and except in two instances, when the record was broken, the scores were far below the aver-age. The first contest, a postponed one from the day age. The first context at property of the property of the result was a minnew casting for black bass. The result was a victory for Sydney Frye on an average casting of 141 feet 8 inches.

At the close of this contest the same competitors made five extra casts each, the longest cast to take the prize, with the following result: W. T. Shackelford, 165 feet; R. C. Leonard, 157 feet 11 inches; C. G. Levison, 154.4; R. C. Leonard, 157 feet 11 inches; C. G. Levison, 154.4; Sydney Fryc, 177. This broke the record of 126 1.2 feet, made in 1887, by a startling margin. The next class was a single-handed fly-casting for anateurs. This was won by Professor J. P. Silvernall with a score of distance 80, and accuracy 40. In this class the record was again broken. A similar contest for experts, with light rods, resulted in R. C. Leonard winning the first prize on a score of 95 feet.

ands hard by, but for some reason the secretary suppressed the score after the averages had been figured out. The last contest of the day was a fly-casting for black bass on the Mere. J. L. Breese won the first prize on a score of 73 feet. C. G. Levison was second with 76 feet 8

POLICE COMMISSIONERS AND ELECTIONS. Mayor Hewitt wrote to Governor Hill yesterday op-Police and Fire Departments to be candidates for election to any office of public trust. The Mayor says that there is no country in the world in which the police is not divorced as far as possible from political control. But in this city the attempt to secure this result by making the Board non-partisan has resulted in producing the directly opposite effect. The influence of a police commissioner over the force is controlling, and if he is a candidate for office his associates will be disposed to permit him to use his position for all it is worth. The whole election machinery of the city is under the control of the Police Department. It controls the appointment of all the inspectors of elections and fixes the polling places. This power, coupled with the natural destre of the police force to influence votes in favor of a superior officer, might easily determine the result of an election. If the bill had provided for the resig-nation of the Police Commissioner on accepting a nomination, it would have been unobjectionable.

Both the fast line of the Pennsylvania Railroad, leaving New-York at 0 a. m. and arriving at St. Louis next evening at 7:30 p. m., and the Western express, leaving New-York at 6:30 p. m. and arriving at St. Louis second morning at 7, carry the celebrated Pullman buffet sleeping cars through without change. This is by many miles the shortest route leading out of New-York.

WILL PLYMOUTH CHURCH GIVE THE CALL! There is much interest evinced in Plymouth Church over the action to be taken this evening upon the report of the Advisory Committee to extend a call to the Rev. Dr. Lyman Abbott as permanent pastor.

While it is not likely that there will be the same unanimity in calling Dr. Abbott that there was when the Rev. Mr. Berry was offered the call he refused last fall, yet it is not deemed doubtful that a large majority will be in his favor. A few active opponents have been trying to secure delay in the matter of calling him, and will endeavor to have the vote by ballot this evening, when it deavor to have the vote by ballot this evening, when it is thought that some who would not like to stand up and be known to oppose Dr. Abbott's election will vote against him. But even with this it is doubtful if a hundred votes will be cast against the call. Whether Dr. Abbott would accept with any considerable number in opposition is not known.

REPLYING TO INSURANCE CRITICISM. With regard to the report of Insurance Department experts on the condition and affairs of the "Co-operative Life and Accident Association of the United States," the secretary, L. A. Osborn, said yesterday: "It is true that the association has had a heavy death rate for the past few months. In regard to our ability to meet the same, it is sufficient to say that we are authorized to make assessments upon our members sufficient to meet every outstanding claim, as well as such claims as may here outstanding claim, as well as the claims as may here-after mature. In this respect we do not differ from other assessment companies. Our association is having a steady growth. In regard to the charge of improper management of our affairs, we emphatically dany anything of the kind, and we assure our members and the public of the kind, and we asked to that our affairs have been honestly managed, and that there is no reason why our association should not perform all the contracts that it has made."
